

Speed & Access

We plotted speed and access against each other as a means of showing the inverse relationship between the two concepts. As access to technology and internet traffic grows, the speed of software not only keeps up, but also continues decreasing. The speed of data transmission is now at a staggering sub millisecond pace. This relationship begins to speak to Moore's Law, a theory critical to understanding the pace of technological development.

Revision #3

Created 12 September 2025 19:36:01 by Rayne

Updated 13 September 2025 00:38:40 by Rayne